

THREE YEAR COMPARISON OF REVOCATION HEARING ACTIONS

October 1, 2011 to May 31, 2012

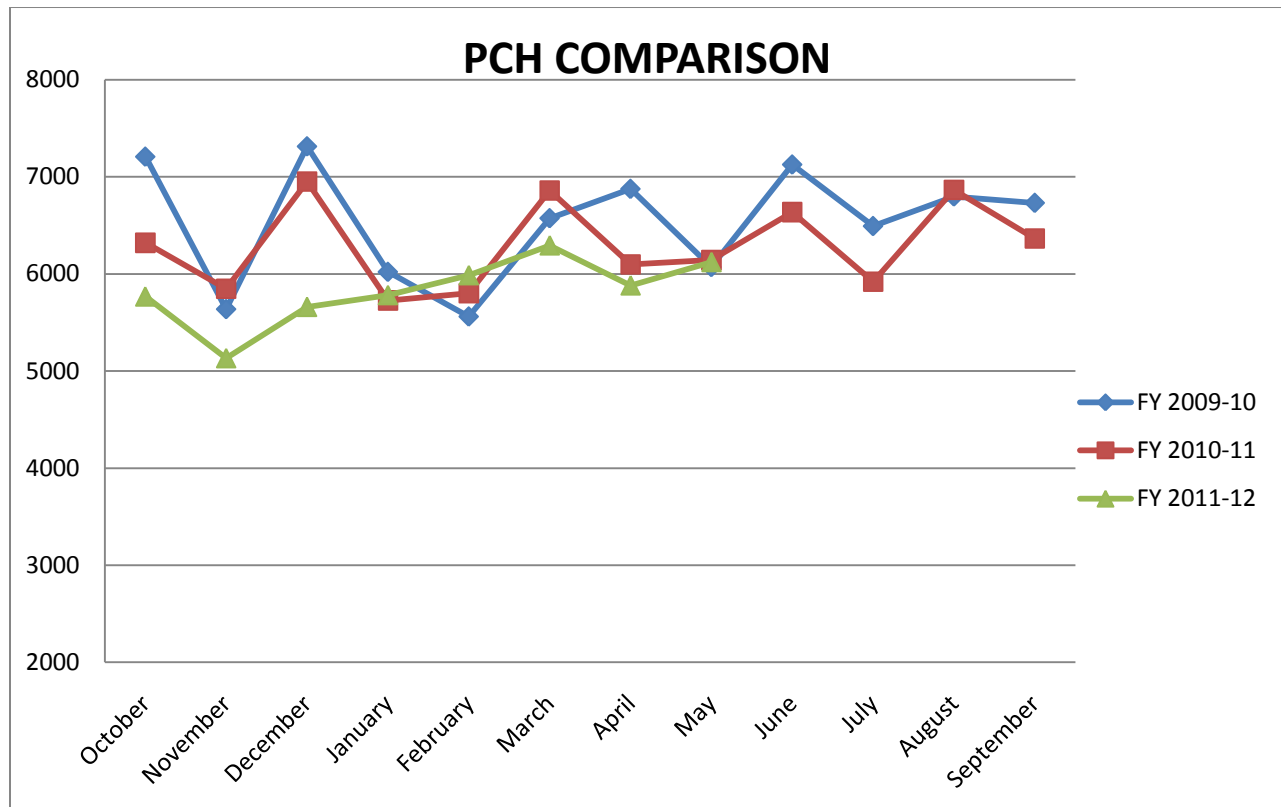

Return to Custody Assessment

- All revocation cases referred to the Board of Parole Hearings has a Return to Custody Assessment (RTCA). At the RTCA, the Deputy Commissioner can dismiss the charges, impose remedial sanctions or make a period of revocation recommendation and forward to a Probable Cause Hearing. The chart below compares the statewide total of RTCAs for the last three fiscal years during the months of October to May.

Probable Cause Hearings

- Cases forwarded during the RTCA, receive a Probable Cause Hearing (PCH) within 13 business days after the hold. The PCH is held with the parolee, his/her attorney and the Deputy Commissioner. About 90% of the revocation cases are resolved at this step. The chart below compares the statewide total of PCHs for the last three fiscal years during the months of October to May.

Revocation Hearing

- When the parolee does not except the offer at the PCH, the revocation case goes to a full revocation hearing. The revocation hearing includes witnesses and testimony. The chart below compares the statewide total of PCHs for the last three fiscal years during the months of October to May.
